WHEELING, W. VA., APRIL 1, 1886.

The City Council will soon be saked to pass upon applications for license to sell liquor in this city. If Council pursue the ustomary course it will rush through the licenses without any regard to the fitness of the applicants. If it were not expected that discrimina-

They give bond, but this is construed to be a mere form. It indiamen of liquor sellers are never proceeded against. This is well understood and nobody feels that he runs any risk to go on the bond of a saloonkeeper however disreputable and whatever may have been his method of conducting his business.

The fault lies mainly with the Council, which has the power to drive, out of the binsiness men whom every Councilman knows ought not to have license. There are places in Wheeling, publicly known to be half-way houses on the road to professional prostitution. Members of Council know where they are and to whom they belong. They have license now and, unless Council turns over a new leaf, they will get it sgain.

In the Mayor's vigorous message he calls attention to this wrong, and Councilmen cannot shut their eyes to its existence though they may continue to permit it. Theroought to be in the Council of Wheeling onough virtue and courage to withhold license from every man who is not a proper person to conduct a business which at best is surrounded with danger to the community.

A Trying situation for the President. In a certain Indiana home there appeared three little girls, all bran new and two of them unexpected, as we are informed. It ought to be said that these

The Philadelphia Ledger of to-day is four-page paper, nine columns to the page, with frequent supplements. It has all the news carefully condensed, a very large circulation, a deep hold on its constituency, and is one of the most profitable enterprises of any kind in the country. Mr. Childs, its proprietor, is known not only for his business sagscity and integrity, but as well for his public spirit and broad philanthropy. The world hears some-thing of the good he does, and there is very much more known only to the bene-ficiaries. He is one of the successful man of the country who regard wealth sa a

OF INTEREST TO SOLDIERS. Spley Correspondence Between Private Dai-zell and Congressman Butterworth.

CALDWELL, O., March 30.—A month or so ago Private Dalzell wrote as follows to that buoyant and belligerent Congressman Ben Butterworth: CALDWELL, O., February 16.

Caldwell, O., February 16.

Dear Ben:—As an old college-mate and friend I beg to say briefly to you that the soldiers whom I see are in bad humor over the treatment accorded them by Congress. I look for them to raise sheel in the next election unless some of the promises made to us by you chaps are redeemed, notably the passage of the bills to equalize bounties and give us arrears of pensions. I should not wonder if that falls if the boys would catch up both the Democratic and Republican candidates when they come hunting around for the soldier vote, tie them neck and heels together and pitch both into the river as boys drown worthless kittens of bad habits.

Yours truly,
PRIVATE DALEKIL.

Mr. Butterworth replied as follows:
House of Representatives, U. S.

House of Representatives, U. S. Washington D. C., March 27.

If it were not expected that discriminating judgment would be exercised in granting judgment would be exercised in granting illcenses, Council would not be asked to take any action at all. Applicants would be required to pay the license fee, and that would be all of it. But Council is required, before it grants license to sell liquor, to "consider the character of the applicant for sobriety and honesty, and the convenience of the place proposed;" and "the Council shall be satisfied that such license is proper, and shall be further satisfied and enter on its record, journal or minutes that the applicant is not of interpretate habits."

This is the law. The fact is that there is no attention whatever paid to the worst character, who keep the worst kind of resorts for the depraved of both sexes, are granted license as a matter of course, no regard being had to their pass or their satisfied and enter on its record, journal to be able to let your light so shine as that the side of the applicant. The President enclosed $20 in the letter.

What did he mean by saying "I am so little accustomed to matters of that kind"?

Who isn't? Are triplets a common calamity, that the President thinks it necessary for him to file this plea? Certainly it is time that a man of his age had begun to rack his brain for names for new-comers. horse to Wm. Jones, of Columbus.

President the other day when there was an opportunity for talk.

'Mr. President,' said the visitor, 'I'm glad to see you, and I want to say that when you were elected I was rather set against you, but now—"

"Ah,' interrupted the President with a smile. 'Another one of those candid fellows whom I see every few days lately. Well, sir, I'm glad you—''

"But now," continued the visitor, overlooking the interruption, 'II am squarely and positively opposed to you, and am going to fight you right along until one of us is knocked out."

After the visitor had departed the Pres-

After the visitor had departed the President nugged Colonel Lancott in the ribs, and remarked: "Dan", the chesnut that comes from other mea's mouths had nothing to do with that case, eh?" and Colonel Lamont coincided with his chief.

Heconstructed by a Coon.

Macon Telegraph.

But a few daya since we noticed a buck darky, appareled with a pair of keen spurs, mount a 4-year-old mule. Immediately we halted to enjoy the free circus. Though poorly provided in the way of saddle and bridle, the darky rammed the cutting blades into the flanks of the mule. True to his instincts, there was a visible elevation of the spine and a couple of eccentric dashes to the right and left. Another dig from the glittering rowels, and he lowered his creat, laid back his ears, and loped away like abuck rabbit in front of a hound. His spirit had been broken, he had surrendered to the insvitable, and the "intelligent contraband" was master of the situation and victor over his lifelong enemy. In the haleyon, days anent, the late civil terms. In the haleyon days anent the late civil strife such a performance would have cost some white man $1,500. The last point of resistance has been reached and passed. The Georgia mule has been reconstructed, and by a coon.

The Webster Echo says: Helvetia is a thriving settlement of Swiss and Germans, living partly in Randolph, Webster and Upshur counties. True to their national character for thrift and industry, they are literally causing the wilderness to blossom as a ross. The Buckhaunon lumber company has taken out a charter for a railroad up the Buckhaunon river and expect to complete it within nine miles of felvetia this year.

The recent heavy failures in Barbour county resulted in the sale of three valuable farms aggregating 1,500 acres of the finest improved body of grass land in that county, for $40,000, to Messrs. Sayers, of Wayneshurg, Pa., who expect to sub-divide this line body of land and sell it to sheep grazers from Greene county, Pa. Interior Notes.
